

United States lifted Secondary Sanctions on Iran

Date: 27/1/2016

Following the IAEA verified completion of nuclear - related steps, the United States lifted secondary sanctions on Iran including sanctions on transactions with Iran's financial, energy, shipping and automotive sectors in addition to other areas.

For partners in the international community and for businesses around the world information has been published on the web sites of the US Treasury Department and States Department detailing the changes. This may be seen at:
