Subject: Rajiv Gandhi National Quality Awards (RGNQA) for year 2013

07 August 2014

Dear Sir,

You may be aware that the Bureau of Indian Standards (BIS) had instituted the Rajiv Gandhi National Quality Awards in 1991 with a view to encourage Indian manufacturing and service organizations to strive for excellence by giving special recognition to those who are considered to be the leaders of quality movement in India. It is one of the most prestigious awards for organizations who have excelled in the field of “quality”, either in manufacturing sector or in service sector. The National Awards Committee (NAC) is the apex body overseeing these awards under the Chairmanship of the Secretary, Department of Consumer Affairs, Ministry of Consumer Affairs, Food and Public Distribution.

2. Applications for RGNQA for the year 2013 have been invited through advertisement from organizations engaged in manufacturing and service sectors, for which the last date of receiving completed application is 31 August 2014 (copy of the advertisement is enclosed for ready reference.)

3. Industries, Service organizations operating under the aegis of your Ministry, who have excelled in quality and performance in their fields of activity could make an effort to be recognized and honoured by applying for this prestigious award. Further, BIS looks forward to the cooperation of your department in popularizing these awards by getting this information hosted on your department's website with a cross reference to BIS website (www.bis.org.in).

4. We look forward to a favorable response.

With warm regards,

Yours sincerely,

(SUNIL SONI)
